

THE EVOLUTION OF RADICAL FORGIVENESS

Stage 1. A Healing Modality

Began as an alternative form of forgiveness to the traditional kind which people seldom can ever achieve. It is just too difficult. In our work with cancer patients, having found out that there was a connection between that disease and a marked resistance to forgiveness, we came up with a form of forgiveness which was easy, quick and a simple step by step process. We called it Radical Forgiveness. It quickly became recognized as a powerful modality for healing all sorts of childhood wounds and the pain of past traumas, residual grievances, regrets, hurts, etc. It was the antidote to victim consciousness and as such gave freedom to many people.

Stage 2. A Philosophy of Life

The concept of Radical Forgiveness is based on a number of assumptions that came to form a profound philosophy of life and a completely different world view or paradigm. It offers an expanded view of reality and a new awareness of the purpose of life and the role that we play each and every day. It is an approach to life that is more in alignment with who we really are and why we are here. It collapses the idea that life is largely meaningless or just a series of random events that just happen for no other reason than we were in the right or wrong place at the right or wrong time, or, that we are the unwitting victims of circumstances. It brings us to the realization that we are not only responsible for creating our lives moment by moment but that we have the power to actually create the lives we want to live. It allows seeing that there is a purpose behind everything that happens to us. It is not only radical — it's revolutionary.

Stage 3. A Technology for Living Consciously

More than mere forgiveness it has become the basis for a way of thinking, acting and being that permeates every aspect of one's life to the point where it becomes our default lifestyle that gives us a way to deal with all the challenges of everyday life in a new way. We call this Radical Living, and it includes four related strategies: 1. Radical Forgiveness — For healing our victim consciousness. 2. Radical Self-Forgiveness and Self-Acceptance — For healing ourselves. 3. Radical Transformation of World Events — For healing the world. 4. Radical Manifestation — For creating the world we want to see.

Stage 4. A Technology That Can Change the World

As we shift our consciousness and begin living from the Radical Living paradigm, we make a significant contribution to raising the consciousness of the entire human race and assist in evolving out of 3-dimensional reality into the 5th dimension of Oneness.
